PROTECT – INSPECTION

Inspection findingsHow well the early years provision meets the needs of the range of children who attend. This is outstanding

Careful observation and assessment of each child is used by staff to plan very successfully for children's individual learning needs and interests. Any gaps in children's learning are identified, accurately targeted and narrowed quickly. Consequently, every child makes excellent progress in their learning. Children thoroughly enjoy fun opportunities to experiment. For example, they are excited to discover what happens when they put water and different types of balls down chutes outside. Staff encourage children's language and thinking skilfully, by, for example, encouraging them to compare and predict what will happen as they experiment. In all rooms, children benefit from opportunities to participate in group activities developing their social skills, and independent learning as they explore the wealth of resources. Children are very well prepared for the next stage in their learning, including moves within the nursery and to school.

The contribution of the early years provision to the well-being of children is outstanding

Children develop an excellent awareness of the benefits of a healthy lifestyle. Staff are positive role models who talk to children about the effect healthy food has on their bodies, and promote children's well-being impressively. Mealtimes are relaxed, social occasions but staff do not always make best use of them to enhance children's independence skills. Partnerships with parents are very well established. Staff organise many events and opportunities for parents to discuss their children's progress. Parents receive excellent encouragement to involve them in their children's learning and to extend learning at home. Parents can borrow an extensive variety of activities and resources to use at home. Well-planned introductions to nursery enable children to gradually settle and for parents to feel confident in the care their children receive. Staff show a high level of concern for all the children and adults around them. They are very polite and well-mannered at all times. They manage any challenging behaviour calmly, sensitively and consistently according to children's level of understanding. As a result, children's behaviour is excellent.

The effectiveness of the leadership and management of the early years provision is outstanding

Rigorous recruitment, induction and supervision ensure staff settle quickly into their roles and feel supported. Partnerships with other professionals and services are strong and continue to develop. This helps to promote consistency in children's care and excellent support for their learning. The nursery provides outstanding support to children, with special educational needs and/or disabilities, and those who are not making expected progress. The systems to monitor children's development and target any gaps in their learning are extremely successful. Thorough self-evaluation informed by staff, parents, children's progress, and research, helps to maintain the high quality of the provision.
